047	22 Feb, 2014,1649	22 Feb, 2014,1650	0.10 Min	Tony	Some of these is crazy, how can it be useful ?
048	22 Feb, 2014,1650	22 Feb, 2014,1650	0.10 Min	Tan	Tony I ask you, did you see these patent being implemented in Singapore ?
049	22 Feb, 2014,1650	22 Feb, 2014,1650	0.10 Min	Tony	Nope.
050	22 Feb, 2014,1650	22 Feb, 2014,1650	0.10 Min	Tan	Precisely, people can apply for patent and get it, but many of it cannot earn money because it is not feasible to be implemented.
051	22 Feb, 2014,1650	22 Feb, 2014,1654	4.00 Min	Jason	(Continue with the patent search presentation)
052	22 Feb, 2014,1654	22 Feb, 2014,1656	2.00 Min	Jason	Here's an interesting one, it's called "A cover for cloth drying rack". Take a look at the patent agent, it is Drew and Napier, one of the big law firm in Singapore. Now take a look at its drawing, the drawing is like kids drawing. Not professional at all. The inventor must have paid big buck to hire patent agent from this big and supposedly professional firm and for some reason, this is the drawing they produce for the inventors.
053	22 Feb, 2014,1656	22 Feb, 2014,1657	1.00 Min	Siew	I tried to do the same thing in this patent before. Problem is that the cloth does not get dry with the cover on because the moisture get trap. When the wind blow, everything gets tangle up. Also, it would be difficult to put the cover on the clothing rack.

054	22 Feb, 2014,1657	22 Feb, 2014,1658	1.00 Min	David	Regarding the drying of clothing, there was a product in the market that help you dry your clothes using some kind of heating mechanism.
055	22 Feb, 2014,1658	22 Feb, 2014,1658	0.10 Min	Jason	I know what you are refering to. You should be talking about the DriBuddy system from JML, it cost S$199. URL is ... http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=nXl25skvQwI
056	22 Feb, 2014,1658	22 Feb, 2014,1659	1.00 Min	Tan	Just to share with everyone, when I go oversea and stay in hotel. There's some trick that I do to dry my wet clothing after washing. First I twist the cloth as dry as possible, sit on it if I must. Then I switch on the TV, turn the brightness to maximum, put a towel over it and throw all my washed clothing all over the TV.
057	22 Feb, 2014,1659	22 Feb, 2014,1659	0.10 Min	All	(Roar with laughter)
058	22 Feb, 2014,1659	22 Feb, 2014,1659	0.00 Min	Tan	If there is a microwave oven around, I put my dry clothing into it for a short while. Take out and you can see the steam rising from clothing.
059	22 Feb, 2014,1659	22 Feb, 2014,1659	0.20 Min	Jason	Aww man, don't tell me you throw your underwear into it.
060	22 Feb, 2014,1659	22 Feb, 2014,1659	0.10 Min	David	Can use disposable underwear.
061	22 Feb, 2014,1659	22 Feb, 2014,1659	0.10 Min	Tan	Don't like it, uncomfortable.
062	22 Feb, 2014,1659	22 Feb, 2014,1701	2.00 Min	Jason	(Complete the patent search presentation) That complete the Patent search for Project Hanger. Tony, you will need to go back and think about this. There will be a one week cool down period before you need to reply SIDA and state your intention on your invention. I will send you an email after one week and you will need to officially state whether to continue with the patent process or to abort the invention. I will also send you the invoice for the patent search by email and contribution to SIDA fund.
063	22 Feb, 2014,1701	22 Feb, 2014,1702	0.10 Min	David	How much does Tony's invention cost. If it cost like $200, I don't think I will go and buy.
064	22 Feb, 2014,1702	22 Feb, 2014,1703	1.00 Min	Tan	David you know why ? Because you have been married for long time, ask you to spend the money to make life better for your wife is not worth it. But for people who just got married, the husband will spend the money to pamper his wife. Joking only hor.
